

Advice to A Young Woman

From An Elder of the Tribe of the Human Beings

You may not know this, but
You are one of God's most special creations

Your beauty is amazing, beyond measure
And your soul is aglow with the fire
That lights all the stars in the heavens

You are now at the age to find yourself
Facing the adventure that lies before you
And you should know that you will do well
To become the woman you truly are, inside

There is a power and a glory shining out
From deep within your heart
That can light up the world

So take confidence in that
And believe in yourself
Never let any man treat you shabbily
Or make you feel small

Carry yourself with dignity at all times
And make the world believe that you belong
Among the greatest citizens of the Earth

Take advantage of your intelligence
And educate yourself well
Before the hardships of life do it for you

Remember that you carry with you the hopes
Not only of your mother and father
Your sisters and brothers and friends
But of a billion souls who lived before you
Whose memories and dreams follow you everywhere

Remember to respect your truly regal nature
Do not forget that everything you do
Will matter not only to yourself
But to a hundred generations who follow

If you give yourself over to the boredom
And meaningless trivialities that others do
You will miss the greatness, mystery and magic
That life offers to unfold before you

Remember that you are loved, and will be loved
Every thought that forms beneath your crown
Can become love for all the world

You are the purpose of this existence
And where you walk, roses shall grow
And all that touch your hands
Will be blessed.
